GOETHE'S BRIEF AN FRAU VON STEIN (2)

RareBooksClub. Paperback. Book Condition: New. This item is printed on demand. Paperback. 60 pages. Original publisher: Washington, D. C. : U. S. Dept. of Justice, Community Relations Service, 2000 OCLC Number: (OCoLC)46787880 Subject: Demonstrations -- United States -- Planning. Excerpt: . . . The answer is everyone who can affect the outcome. This will include the mayor, city manager, police, and almost every municipal department In addition, the community must be mobilized and involved. Volunteers will be required. Community organizations and business must be involved. The unique feature of many major events, such as Spring Break and Special Events is that they bring a large number of college-age and younger people to a community for the event. These are usually minimal or few officially-sponsored activities. The main event is to be there to walk, to cruise in cars, to be seen, and to visit with other students. Thus, when the event comes to the city, everyone who works for the city - regardless of their regular duties - will be working on the event for that period. All of a city's resources, including churches, community organizations, and volunteers will be needed. The event is not solely the responsibility of the police and fire departments. Pre-event Activities Pre-event activities involve planning by all city, police, business, community, student, and promoter personnel to engage the resources necessary for a successful event. At this stage potential problems should be identified and addressed. Planning should occur six to nine months in advance of large events. Even if a firm date is not known in the early planning stages, it is usually well known that the activity will occur around a particular holiday or vacation time. The exact event date can be plugged in once it is publicized. Publication of exact dates is now usually...
