The first two, The Epistle and Epitome, were in preparation in May, 1588, but The Epistle was not printed till about 15th October, while its sequel followed at the end of the next month. Meanwhile Waldegrave, the printer, in fear of detection, was forced to move his press about from place to place, with the assistance of the Welsh puritan reformer John Penry. At the beginning of February, 1589, he was lurking at Coventry, whence he issued, about the 20th, the broadside mentioned above, and just over a month later Hay any worke for Cooper, the third of the trails proper. Directly this was finished, he began to make preparations for leaving Coventry, and meeting one Sharpe, the bookbinder, afterwards the chief informer of the Martinist circle, he told him that he intended to go down into Devonshire to print Cartwright s answer to the Rhemish Testament, for the copy of which he had long been waiting. Presumably, therefore, he went to Devonshire at the end of March. Sharpe informs us next that about May day he met Penry, who told him that Waldegrave was surely in hand in some corner with the printing of Master Cartwright s Testament, that he looked daily for his Appellation from him, and that then he should go in hand with More work for Cooper. Penry s reference to the last work shows that Waldegrave was still regarded as the Marprelate printer. He had taken with him, moreover, the Dutch letters in which the first three Martins had...
